Principles and Practices

My good friend Dr. Alan asked me; “What is the whole dialogue concept?”

His good question led to this response: I now think in terms of principles and practices. The concepts (principles) emerge from those practices I saw work for learning.

When I was respectful, learners looked me in the eye and got to work, learning.

When the sequence was clear and simple, their work was delightful. Their work was fruitful. They learned!

When the content was relevant to their context, their learning had immediacy.
